BJP'S FIRST-EVER BENGAL GOVT OATH ON MAY 9 | LEGISLATIVE LEADER DECISION ON MAY 8

GUV PUTS END TO MAMATA ERA

Guv dissolves Mamata cabinet; Banerjee no longer Bengal CM; Dramatic move comes after she 'refused' to resign despite mounting pressure after electoral setback

KOLKATA

Governor RN Ravi has formally dissolved the West Bengal Legislative Assembly, effectively ending Mamata Banerjee's tenure as the chief minister.

The move, implemented under Clause 2 of Article 174 of the Constitution of India, was announced in an official notification issued on Thursday. "I hereby dissolve the Legislative Assembly of West Bengal with effect from 7th May, 2026," the Governor stated in the notice.

The current assembly was constituted in May 2021 after the Trinamool Congress, under the leadership of Mamata Banerjee, returned to power for the third consecutive term in the state. The dissolution marks the formal completion of the tenure of the outgoing assembly, following the recently concluded two-phase elections. The notification was issued by the Department of Parliamentary Affairs.

The dissolution comes amid a political standoff after Banerjee refused to step down following the BJP's sweep, alleging irregularities in the elections. She claimed that the BJP's decisive performance in West Bengal was a result of vote manipulation and tampering of EVMs. She also accused the ECI of colluding with the BJP to unseat her government.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF?

2026: Chandra shot deade
- Chandranath Rath, another close aide of Adhikari, was shot dead in North 24 Parganas on Wednesday night. The murder has triggered sharp political reactions.

> No matter how much we condemn the way this murder was carried out, it is not enough. He was killed because he was my aide and I defeated Mamata Banerjee in Bhabanipur. This could be the reason for his murder.
> —Suvendu Adhikari, BJP leader

Multiple teams set up to trace killers of Suvendu's aide

KOLKATA

West Bengal police have formed multiple teams to trace the men involved in the killing of BJP leader Suvendu Adhikari's close aide Chandranath Rath, a senior officer said on Thursday.

Police are also probing whether contract killers were engaged in the murder of Rath (42), who was shot dead in North 24 Parganas district on Wednesday night.

A forensic team visited the spot on Thursday morning and collected samples, while officers of the Criminal Investigation Department (CID) also joined the probe, he said.

Adhikari lost 4 aides in 13 years

KOLKATA

For over a decade, the BJP's giant slayer Suvendu Adhikari has lost several of his close aides and security personnel to unnatural deaths, the latest being the killing of his personal assistant Chandranath Rath.

Adhikari, who defeated Mamata Banerjee twice in elections and is now one of the frontrunners for the chief minister's post in West Bengal, has indicated that this is a political killing.

While no investigative agency has established any direct link between these incidents, the cases are increasingly being referenced together in West Bengal's political circles due to the recurring pattern of unnatural or controversial deaths.

Prove majority for oath: Guv to Vijay

CHENNAI

Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK) chief Vijay, who made a blockbuster debut in politics by breaking the DMK's and AIADMK's traditional duopoly, met Tamil Nadu Governor Rajendra Arlekar once again on Thursday as uncertainty continues over the formation of the next state government.

TVK, which emerged as the single-largest party with 108 seats in the 234-member assembly, had staked a claim to form the government on Wednesday. The Governor, however, was not convinced and asked Vijay to furnish proof that he could head a majority government.

At present, TVK holds 108 seats, while Congress, with 5 MLAs, has pledged support. Together, TVK+ Congress have 113 MLAs, still five short of the majority mark of 118 in the 234-member TN assembly.

As per TVK insiders, they are counting on backing from other key DMK allies - CPI (two seats), CPM (two seats), and VCK (two seats).

While DMK won only 59 seats, Stalin too lost his stronghold, Kolathur, to TVK. The AIADMK won 47 seats. Vijay was prepared for a quick swearing-in ceremony on Thursday, along with four senior colleagues, but the event has been delayed.

Meanwhile, speculation persists about possible realignments. Reports suggest that Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (DMK) and All India Anna Dravida Munnetra Kazhagam (AIADMK) informally explored the idea of Dravidian parties joining forces to form a government. TVK has 108 seats, DMK has 59, and AIADMK has 47. Stalin, however, signalled that the DMK would not immediately attempt to destabilise a potential TVK government.

Denying Vijay chance to form govt 'unfair': DKS

BENGALURU: Karnataka Deputy Chief Minister D K Shivakumar on Thursday termed as "unfair" Tamil Nadu Governor Rajendra Vishwanath Arlekar not inviting TVK chief Vijay to form the government in that state, despite emerging as the single largest party. He urged the Governor to allow TVK to form the government and prove its majority on the floor of the Assembly.

"In Tamil Nadu what the Governor is doing is not fair. He should allow the single largest party (TVK) to form the government and ask them to take the floor test," Shivakumar said.

Addressing reporters here, he said, in 2018, the then Governor invited B S Yediyurappa, leader of the BJP -- the single largest party with 104 seats in the 224-member assembly-- to form the government, despite the Congress-JD(S) alliance submitting a letter claiming a majority. However, unable to manage the numbers, Yediyurappa resigned in three days, before facing the floor test.

> In a democracy, one should look at the people's mandate. Give them an opportunity; if TVK fails, that's okay. There are instances of losing a vote of confidence even with one vote; didn't Vajpayee lose?
> —DK Shivakumar, DyCM

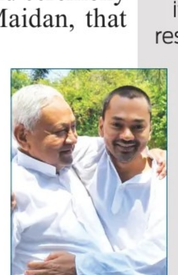
Citing the example of former PM Atal Bihari Vajpayee, Shivakumar recalled that the then President gave him an opprtunity to prove a majority on the floor of the Lok Sabha. "TVK should be given an opportunity, it is unfair," he said.

From shadow to limelight: Nishant takes oath as Bihar min

PATNA

In a major expansion of the Cabinet of Bihar's first BJP-led government, JD(U) supremo Nitish Kumar's son Nishant Kumar and 31 others took oath as ministers on Thursday in the presence of Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah.

Governor Lt Gen (Retd) Syed Ata Hasnain administered oath at a grand ceremony held at Gandhi Maidan, that was also attended by Defence Minister Rajnath Singh and Union Health Minister JP Nadda and BJP president Nitin Nabin.



The BJP, which is the single largest party in the 243-member assembly with 89 MLAs, has 15 ministers, who took oath on Thursday. Most of the inductees were those who were part of the Nitish Kumar cabinet formed in last November after the NDA stormed back to power in the assembly polls.

The JD(U) is represented by 15 ministers, 13 of whom took the oath on the occasion.

The son who said No, then said Yes

The part that makes Nishant Kumar's entry into Bihar politics genuinely interesting is precisely the reluctance that preceded it. The 45-year-old engineering graduate had reportedly wanted to earn his spurs as a party worker first, before accepting any formal government post. That is not how political sons in Bihar typically behave, and it earned him a certain quiet respect even among those who remain sceptical of dynastic politics. Reports suggest the decision to join the government finally came after a late-night meeting with senior JD(U) leaders on Tuesday. Lalan Singh, one of the party's most trusted operators, had made the trip from Delhi specifically for those conversations. What was said behind closed doors has not been fully reported. What is known is that Nishant walked out of his father's residence the next morning as a man who had agreed to something he had been declining for weeks. His 'Sadbhavana Yatra', scheduled to continue on May 7, was cancelled due to the swearing-in and is set to resume from May 9.

Forces revamp combat units, boosts air defence

JAIPUR: A year after Operation Sindoor, the Indian Army is transforming its battle formations to make them more agile while the Indian Air Force will soon receive two more squadrons of S-400 air defence systems to further strengthen the air space, top military officials said here on Thursday.

The officials also note that China's continuous military assistance is factored into the Indian security matrix.

They further assert that every terror camp in Pakistan is visible to the Indian forces and no sanctuaries are safe even if Islamabad shifts them deep inside the country.

Lt Gen Rajiv Ghai, Air Marshal A K Bharti and Vice Admiral A N Pramod who were the director generals of military operations in their respective services during the last year's India-Pakistan conflict spoke to the media at the army's South Western Command that looks after a part of the Western front.

Defence Minister Rajnath Singh also addressed a Joint Commanders Conference.

Responding to queries, Lt Gen Ghai said critical transformation in the armoured corps, mechanised infantry and aviation cops were at an "advanced stage of deliberation" and would be implemented.

This comes after the army carried out a series of such transformations in the infantry and artillery regiments to create Bhairav battalions, Ashni platoons, Divyastra batteries and Shaktiban regiments to tackle the emerging threats.

What is Operation Sindoor?

Operation Sindoor was a multi-dimensional military and strategic offensive launched by India on the night of 7–8th May, 2025. He was speaking at the graduation ceremony of BGS-B School on Kengeri-Uttarahalli Main Road in Bengaluru. Addressing students, Dr Shetty stressed that education and industrial aspirations must go hand in hand. He said educational institutions should equip students with skills that industries currently demand.

According to him, the present curriculum reforms introduced by the Central and State governments are moving in the right direction by focusing on skill-based education. Nearly 600 vehicles towed for parking violations since April 1

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A month after Bengaluru reintroduced towing operations for wrongly parked vehicles, traffic police say the crackdown is beginning to show visible impact on city roads. Since April 1, nearly 600 vehicles — the majority of them cars — have been towed away for causing obstruction and traffic congestion across different parts of the city.At present, towing operations are being carried out in the Central, West and North traffic divisions with six towing trucks in service. Officials said the drive will soon be expanded to South Bengaluru and other congested areas. Joint Commissioner of Police (Traffic) Karthik Reddy said six additional towing vehicles would soon be added to strengthen enforcement across the city. He said the towing fleet, provided by the Greater Bengaluru Authority (GBA), currently functions with small teams of three to four personnel, including the driver. Every operation is supervised by an assistant sub-inspector (ASI) from the respective traffic police station.Deputy Commissioner of Police (West) Anoop Shetty said authorities are currently operating with one towing vehicle for every two traffic police station jurisdictions. According to him, the focus has largely been on cars and other four-wheelers as they occupy more road space and create major bottlenecks for moving traffic.Officials said the towing strategy is flexible and changes depending on traffic congestion. In the west division, a tow truck may operate in Wilson Garden one day and move to Ashok Nagar the next, covering different problem areas throughout the week.A senior traffic police officer said towing vehicles are deployed immediately whenever severe congestion is reported due to illegal parking. He added that parking violations are most common on roads within the central business district and at key junctions along the Outer Ring Road.According to police, wrong parking is particularly severe in the south-east and southern stretches of the Outer Ring Road, especially in the city's tech corridor, where roadside parking often narrows carriageways and slows traffic movement during peak hours.BackgroundVehicle towing in Bengaluru had been suspended on February 2, 2022, following allegations of corruption and irregularities in enforcement. The system was officially reintroduced on April 5, 2026.The operations are being jointly conducted by the Bengaluru Traffic Police and the GBA. Officials said all towing vehicles are equipped with dash cameras and geotagging systems to improve transparency and accountability. The fine for wrong parking is Rs 500 for all vehicles. In addition, vehicle owners must pay towing charges of Rs 650 for two-wheelers and Rs 1,000 for four-wheelers.

Problems continue for smooth traffic flow inspite of levying fines for wrong parking

CYBERCROOKS POSING AS NIA OFFICIALS DUPE ELDERLY WOMAN OF RS 2 CRORE

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A 78-year-old homemaker and her daughter were allegedly cheated of Rs 2.1 crore by cybercriminals posing as officials of the National Investigation Agency (NIA) in a sophisticated "digital arrest" scam in Bengaluru.

The victims, residents of Jayanagar, were targeted after fraudsters falsely claimed they were linked to a terror-related investigation involving the banned Popular Front of India (PFI).According to police, the ordeal began on April 13 when the elderly woman received a WhatsApp call from a man claiming to be an NIA officer.

The caller alleged that a PFI member arrested during an investigation had been using a debit card issued in her name. He warned her not to reveal the matter to anyone, saying the case was highly sensitive.The fraudsters gradually gained the woman's trust and collected details about her family members along with copies of identification documents. They later claimed that her daughter was also under suspicion in the same case.

A man identifying himself as Pradeep Jaswal allegedly conducted video-recorded "statements" of the woman and her daughter. The accused repeatedly threatened them with arrest and public humiliation if they failed to cooperate.Terrified by the accusations, the victims insisted they had no links to any terror organisation.

The fraudsters then assured them that they could avoid arrest if they cooperated with the "investigation."On the pretext of verifying money trails and complying with Reserve Bank of India (RBI) procedures, the accused persuaded the woman to disclose details of her bank accounts and balances. They subsequently instructed her to transfer funds to multiple bank accounts, claiming the money would be returned after verification.

Believing the claims, the woman transferred her life savings over several transactions. Police said she even prematurely closed fixed deposits held in two banks and transferred the proceeds to the fraudsters.

The cybercriminals allegedly continued manipulating the victims and convinced them to pledge gold jewellery to raise additional funds. The fraud came to light only on May 2 when the elderly woman approached her brother seeking more money.Suspecting foul play, her brother warned her that she was being cheated.

The woman then contacted the national cybercrime helpline 1930 and later filed a formal complaint with the police.A senior police officer said a case has been registered under provisions of the Information Technology Act and the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita (BNS). Investigators are now working to trace the accused and freeze the money transferred into various accounts.

TERMINAL LACKS MAINTENANCE

Airport-like promise fades as SMVT struggles with maintenance issues

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Years after its grand inauguration, the Sir M Visvesvaraya Terminal at Byappanahalli is facing growing criticism over deteriorating passenger amenities and maintenance concerns, raising questions about whether the station has lived up to its "airport-like" image.

When the terminal was opened, it drew widespread attention for its modern architecture, glass façade, escalators, digital displays and centralised air-conditioning. Constructed at a cost of Rs 314 crore, the station was projected as a future-ready railway hub designed to redefine passenger comfort in Bengaluru.

However, passengers now say the reality falls short of expectations. While the terminal continues to witness heavy long-distance passenger traffic and remains one of the city's busiest railway stations, several facilities have failed to keep pace with increasing footfall.Inside the station, many passengers complained about inadequate cooling despite the terminal being marketed as centrally air-conditioned. Travellers said the difference between outdoor and indoor temperatures was barely noticeable during afternoon hours, making waiting areas uncomfortable.The lack of adequate seating has emerged as another major concern. Many passengers were seen sitting on floors or standing for extended periods while waiting for trains. Long-distance travellers often arrive well in advance due to Bengaluru's unpredictable traffic conditions, leading to overcrowding in the concourse area.Maintenance issues were also visible across the premises. Parking areas were littered with garbage, including liquor bottles, while paan stains were found on staircases, platforms and walls. Passengers additionally raised concerns over poorly maintained washrooms and hygiene standards within the station.Railway officials, however, maintained that the facilities remain operational and said measures are being taken to improve passenger experience as traffic grows steadily.Responding to complaints regarding poor cooling, officials denied any failure in the air-conditioning system and stated that the equipment was functioning normally. Authorities also addressed concerns about escalators frequently remaining non-functional. According to officials, passengers often press emergency stop buttons unnecessarily, after which the escalators can only be restarted using special keys available with security personnel.

Railway authorities said expansion works are already underway to reduce congestion and improve facilities. A new concourse spanning nearly 875 square metres is currently being constructed adjacent to the existing terminal at an estimated cost of Rs 17 crore.

High Court allows passport for minor without father's consent

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Observing that a child should not suffer because of disputes between parents, the Karnataka High Court has directed passport authorities to issue a short-term passport to a five-year-old girl even without the consent of her father.

The court also imposed a condition that the child must return to India before the expiry of the passport after visiting her grandparents abroad. Authorities were directed to obtain an undertaking in this regard and issue the passport within a week.The order was passed by a single-judge bench headed by Justice Sachin Shankar Magadum while hearing a petition filed by the child's mother. She had approached the court after passport authorities kept the application pending due to the father's refusal to provide consent.The bench observed that the father, despite residing at the same address, was allegedly avoiding the process and not responding to court notices. The judge said rules could be relaxed in exceptional cases where one parent unnecessarily obstructs matters affecting the welfare of the child.The court stated that it is the legitimate right of a child to meet family members and that strained relations between parents should not curtail the rights and interests of a minor.Accordingly, the bench directed authorities to issue a passport valid for eight weeks to enable the child to travel abroad with her mother during the summer vacation.The court further observed that the legal rights of a minor cannot be defeated merely because one parent refuses consent without reasonable grounds.According to the petition, the child intended to travel to Australia to spend time with her grandparents during the holidays. However, under passport rules, consent from both parents is generally mandatory for issuing passports to minors.The petitioner's counsel submitted that matrimonial disputes were pending between the woman and her husband, including divorce proceedings before a family court.

Hospital staffer arrested for theft of patient's jewellery worth Rs 10 lakh

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

A routine hospital visit for surgery turned traumatic for a couple after gold and silver ornaments worth nearly Rs 9.7 lakh allegedly went missing from a private hospital ward on Hennur-Bagalur Main Road last week.

Following a complaint, Hennur police arrested a woman hospital staff member suspected of stealing the valuables and launched efforts to recover the ornaments.

According to police, the complainant, a 41-year-old resident of Yelahanka, had accompanied his wife to the hospital on May 1 for a surgery scheduled the following day. Before she was shifted to the operation theatre on the morning of May 2, nursing staff reportedly instructed her to remove all jewellery.

The woman then placed her valuables, including a 65-gram gold mangalya chain, a pair of gold earrings weighing 9 grams and silver anklets weighing 10 grams, inside a handbag kept in the wardrobe of the hospital ward.

However, after the surgery, the couple was shocked to discover that the ornaments were missing when the husband checked the wardrobe around 2.45 pm.

With no signs of forced entry into the ward, suspicion fell on individuals who had access to the room, including hospital employees. The complainant immediately alerted the hospital management before approaching the police.

A senior police officer said a case was registered and an investigation was launched based on CCTV footage and staff movement inside the ward.

During the inquiry, police identified a newly recruited woman staff member as the prime suspect in the theft. She has since been taken into custody for questioning.

Police said the accused's identity is being withheld at this stage as efforts are underway to recover the stolen ornaments and ascertain whether others were involved in the theft.Further investigation is in progress.

Centre favouring Gujarat in investments and IPL decisions: Priyank Kharge

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Karnataka Minister Priyank Kharge criticised the Central government, alleging that major investments and projects are increasingly being diverted to Gujarat and claimed that even the IPL has been "hijacked."-Speaking to reporters over the shifting of the IPL final match from Bengaluru, Kharge questioned the reasons behind the decision and said there were no security concerns in the city."IPL matches are going to Gujarat. Capital investments are also going to Gujarat. Jay Shah is in the BCCI and ICC, and he can do whatever he wants. Matches can be shifted from Bengaluru to Hyderabad or Gujarat. Is there no security in Bengaluru? Why was the match shifted?" he asked.

Kharge further alleged that several major semiconductor projects had also been moved to Gujarat despite companies showing preference for states like Karnataka and Tamil Nadu."Even when companies apply for subsidies and mention Karnataka or Tamil Nadu as their first preference, projects are eventually allotted to Gujarat or Assam. How is this happening?" he questioned.

The minister said Karnataka has built a strong industrial and technology ecosystem over the last three to four decades, attracting skilled workers and students from across the country.

REPRIEVE FOR DGP

Suspension of DGP Ramachandra Rao withdrawn ahead of retirement: HM

CH NEWS, BENGALURU

Karnataka Home Minister G Parameshwara clarified that the suspension of DGP Ramachandra Rao in connection with the alleged obscene video case has been withdrawn as the officer is set to retire later this month.

Speaking to reporters, Parameshwara said the suspension was revoked with the approval of Chief Minister Siddaramaiah. He stated that Ramachandra Rao had submitted an explanation to the Chief Minister and requested that his pensionary benefits be settled before retirement while allowing the investigation to continue.

"The suspension has been withdrawn since he is retiring at the end of this month. The officer had appealed for settlement of pension benefits before retirement and requested continuation of the investigation," the Home Minister said.

Parameshwara added that he was aware of the matter but refrained from commenting on whether the suspension decision was right or wrong. "This issue falls under the jurisdiction of the DPAR and the Chief Minister. They have taken the decision," he said.

The minister, however, made it clear that the investigation into the alleged obscene video case would continue until its completion. He said the government would take further action based on the final investigation report.

"We have seen many cases where pension benefits were withheld even after retirement. A decision regarding this case will be taken after the inquiry is completed and the final report is submitted," he said.

Meanwhile, Parameshwara also addressed reports regarding the shifting of an IPL match from Bengaluru to Ahmedabad. Rejecting allegations of security concerns, he said there had been no issues during the five matches already conducted in Bengaluru.

"There has been no complaint from IPL authorities, Royal Challengers Bengaluru or the Karnataka State Cricket Association regarding security arrangements," he said.

Explaining the commercial reasons behind the venue shift, the minister said Bengaluru's stadium has an official capacity of around 33,000 seats, of which a significant number are reserved for VIPs, sponsors and the visiting team. "Only around 22,000 seats remain for sale. From a commercial point of view, it may not be viable for them, whereas Ahmedabad has a stadium with nearly one lakh seats," he said.

Parameshwara also dismissed allegations linking the shift to free passes given to MLAs. "What connection does that have? Giving a few passes cannot become the reason for shifting a match," he said.

Vishwanath on Thursday criticized the Karnataka government over two recent developments, calling them "black marks" on the state's image Speaking at a press conference held at the Jaladarshini Guest House in Mysuru, he questioned the government's decision to revoke the suspension of senior police officer Ramachandra Rao and also objected to the public celebration planned for former Chief Minister B.S. made against the officer by a woman who had approached him seeking helpAccording to Vishwanath, a forensic science laboratory report had earlier confirmed the authenticity of a video linked to the case, following which the government suspended the officer He questioned why the suspension was suddenly withdrawn and said such actions weaken public trust in justice and administrationThe MLC also criticized the "Abhimanotsava" event planned in Chitradurga in support of Yediyurappa, who is facing charges under the POCSO Act Vishwanath said organizing a celebration during such a sensitive legal matter sends the wrong message to the publicHe further said political leaders and officials must act responsibly when cases involving serious allegations are still before the courts Vishwanath urged the government to protect the credibility of institutions and avoid decisions that could create confusion among citizens.

Mangaluru IT Park faces hurdles as investors stay away

MANGALURU

The dream of establishing a major IT Park in Mangaluru under the Karnataka government's "Beyond Bengaluru" initiative has hit a roadblock after the project failed to attract bidders during the first phase of tendering.The proposed Rs 135-crore IT Park is expected to come up on 3.2 acres near Blueberry Hills Road at Derebail and is aimed at boosting IT and BT investments in coastal Karnataka while creating large-scale employment opportunities.The project is considered crucial for generating thousands of direct and indirect jobs and improving economic opportunities in both urban and rural areas surrounding Mangaluru.

However, despite the project's significance, the first bidding process ended without receiving a single application.The tender process, issued by Karnataka State Electronics Development Corporation (KEONICS), began on December 15, 2025 and closed a month later. Following the lack of response, the government has now invited a second round of tenders, which will remain open until May 22.Sources indicate that even during the second phase, only one bidder has shown preliminary interest.

The project is vital for jobs and economic growth around Mangaluru, but the first bidding process failed without any applications

According to industry experts, one of the biggest reasons for poor investor response is inadequate infrastructure around the project site, especially lack of proper road connectivity. Though the location is just one kilometre away from National Highway 66, access and supporting infrastructure remain underdeveloped.Experts also believe strict tender conditions and high lease rentals have discouraged companies. Since the project land belongs to the government, investors expected lower rental rates suited for a Tier-2 city. However, the pricing structure reportedly resembles metro-city standards.

Rajanna urges swift decision amid leadership confusion

MYSURU

Former Karnataka minister and Congress MLA Rajanna urged the party high command to quickly clear the confusion over a possible leadership change in the state. He said a delayed decision could affect both the government and the Congress party.

Rajanna revealed that he had personally spoken to senior party leaders and had also written a letter requesting an early decision. According to him, the issue should not remain unresolved for a long time because it may weaken the administration and create unnecessary political tension.

He also demanded clarity on cabinet expansion and said ministers should either be given freedom to work or the party should take a final call on leadership changes.

Rajanna said several Congress leaders are capable of becoming chief minister. He added that there was nothing wrong with Deputy Chief Minister D.K. Shivakumar hoping for the top post.

Asked whether replacing Siddaramaiah would hurt the party, Rajanna said Congress is a national party and such matters are decided by the high command. He stressed that focus should remain on governance instead of confusion among supporters.

FORGOTTEN FORT LEGACY

Locals raise concern over neglected historic fort

CHIKKAMAGALURU

A historic fort in Sakharaya town of Kadur taluk is falling into neglect even though it carries important traces of Karnataka's past. The structure, believed to have been built during the time of the Keladi and Vijayanagara rulers around 1646–47, still stands in the heart of the coffee-growing district, but locals say it is slowly deteriorating due to lack of maintenance.According to Shakunagiri Temple President Sachchidananda, historical records suggest that Aruvadi Sri Ranga Raya, a feudatory ruler under the Vijayanagara Empire, built the fort with royal support. He said the fort was designed in a circular shape for security purposes and once even housed a mint used for producing gold coins. A water system connected to Ayyan Lake was also created to strengthen its protection.One of the main attractions of the fort is a massive cannon placed at its top. Locals claim it is one of the longest cannons in Karnataka, measuring nearly 19 feet and weighing between 22 and 24 tons. It is believed to have been used for defence and could fire shells up to two miles. Some also say it was designed to be rotated by a single person.Despite its historical value, the fort remains poorly maintained. Residents have expressed concern that the structure is losing its identity due to neglect.

NEGLECTED INFRASTRUCTURE AFFECTS BELTHANGADY EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

BELTHANGADY

The poor condition of the Block Education Officer's office in Belthangady has highlighted the neglect faced by the education department infrastructure in the taluk. Ironically, the department responsible for ensuring proper facilities in schools is itself struggling to function without a suitable office building.

The old BEO office located near Marigudi has turned dilapidated and unsafe after years of neglect. During every monsoon, rainwater leaked through the roof, making it difficult for officials and staff to work inside the building. Despite repeated appeals to the government for repair grants, no funds were reportedly released.Officials somehow managed to continue functioning from the damaged structure for several years. However, as leakage worsened and cracks began appearing across the building, authorities were left with no option but to vacate the office nearly a year ago.The office has now been temporarily shifted to the Samarthya Soudha building of the Belthangady Taluk Panchayat. However, staff members say the temporary location lacks adequate space and proper facilities, affecting smooth functioning of administrative work related to schools and educational institutions in the taluk.Adding to the concern is the abandoned Gurubhavan building located beside the old BEO office. The project was started decades ago to create a dedicated space for teachers' meetings, training programmes, cultural activities and official gatherings.

Though construction had progressed up to slab level with a hall and rooms being built, the project stopped midway due to lack of funding. More than Rs 15 lakh is said to have already been spent on the structure through government support and contributions from teachers.Today, the incomplete building stands abandoned with bushes and large trees growing around it. Continuous exposure to rain and heat has damaged the structure, with cracks appearing on the walls and water leakage from the roof worsening every year.

UNANNOUNCED LOAD SHEDDING SPARKS OUTRAGE AMONG UDUPI RESIDENTS

UDUPI

Continuous and unannounced power cuts in several parts of Udupi district have triggered public outrage, with residents alleging that unofficial load shedding is being carried out without prior intimation.Over the last four to five days, residents have been facing repeated electricity interruptions at different times of the day and night. Consumers say power supply is being disrupted during morning, afternoon, late-night and early morning hours, severely affecting normal life.The frequent outages are impacting homes, offices, businesses and industries. Citizens say the situation has become especially difficult due to the ongoing summer season when dependence on cooling appliances such as fans and air conditioners is very high.

Residents pointed out that power cuts are normally expected during heavy rain, lightning or strong winds when transformers or electric lines get damaged. However, they alleged that the current disruptions are happening despite stable weather conditions.Public anger is particularly visible in urban localities such as Manipal, Indrali, Kunjibettu, Eshwarnagar, Kukkikatte and Doddanagudde where electricity supply interruptions have reportedly increased in recent days.Consumers questioned how rural areas would be coping if even major urban centres are facing frequent outages.

People said that though scheduled maintenance shutdowns by Mangalore Electricity Supply Company (MESCOM) are acceptable, the absence of prior information regarding emergency power cuts has caused major inconvenience.Meanwhile, MESCOM officials clarified that some interruptions were caused after a transformer malfunction at Nittur station. Executive Engineer K. Prasanna Kumar said the damaged transformer has now been repaired and electricity supply is being restored gradually.

NDA leaders show strength at Gandhi Maidan

32 leaders from the ruling NDA were sworn in as Bihar ministers during a grand ceremony

PATNA

The cabinet led by Samrat Chaudhary witnessed a major expansion on Thursday as 32 leaders from the ruling National Democratic Alliance (NDA) were sworn in as ministers during a grand ceremony held at Gandhi Maidan.

The large-scale swearing-in ceremony turned into a major political event in Bihar, drawing the presence of several senior NDA leaders and thousands of party supporters. Prime Minister Narendra Modi, Union Home Minister Amit Shah, Defence Minister Rajnath Singh, and former Bihar Chief Minister Nitish Kumar attended the event, highlighting the political significance of the cabinet reshuffle.

One of the key highlights of the expansion was the inclusion of several fresh faces in the state government. The (Janata Dal (United) inducted three new leaders into the cabinet — Nishant Kumar, Bulo Mandal, and Shweta Gupta.

Political observers believe the induction of Shweta Gupta reflects an effort by the party to strengthen women's representation within the government and broaden its social outreach.

The Bharatiya Janata Party also introduced four first-time ministers — Mithilesh Tiwari, Ramchandra Paswan, Nand Kishore Ram, and Engineer Shailendra. Through these appointments, the BJP appears to have focused on expanding its representation among different social and regional groups. The final distribution of ministerial positions reflected careful alliance management within the NDA. Of the 32 ministers inducted, 15 belong to the BJP quota, while 13 ministers represent JD(U). Two positions were allotted to the Lok Janshakti Party (Ram Vilas), one to the Hindustani Awam Morcha (Secular), and one to the Rashtriya Lok Morcha led by Upendra Kushwaha.

Political analysts view the cabinet expansion as a strategic move aimed at maintaining unity among NDA allies while preparing for upcoming electoral battles in Bihar and at the national level. The inclusion of both experienced leaders and newcomers is also being seen as an attempt to strengthen the alliance's social and political base across the state. The reconstruction of the temple played a key role in restoring national confidence and cultural self-respect.

According to the Chief Minister, the shrine has remained an enduring example of India's ability to preserve its traditions despite centuries of challenges. He added that the Somnath temple continues to inspire generations through its historical and spiritual importance.

The Chief Minister further said that under the leadership of Prime Minister Narendra Modi, the country is progressing with a vision that combines development with preservation of heritage. He emphasised that economic growth and cultural revival are being pursued simultaneously to strengthen India's identity on the global stage

The 'Somnath Swabhiman Yatra' is expected to continue in multiple phases, enabling devotees from different parts of Madhya Pradesh to undertake the spiritual journey to one of Hinduism's most revered pilgrimage centres.

Devajit Saikia resigns as Assam Advocate General

GUWAHATI

Senior legal officer steps down ahead of formation of new NDA government in Assam state. Devajit Saikia on Thursday announced his resignation from the post of Advocate General of Assam following the completion of the tenure of the present state government led by Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma.

In a statement shared on X, Saikia said he had submitted his resignation on Wednesday in accordance with constitutional traditions and established practices followed after the end of a government's term. He stated that his nearly five-year tenure as the state's top law officer had formally concluded with the completion of the current administration's tenure.

Saikia said that upholding constitutional conventions was important and therefore he chose to step down before the formation of the next government. He described his period in office as an "immense honour and privilege" and expressed gratitude to the political leadership, legal fraternity, and government officials for their support and cooperation during his tenure.

The senior legal officer thanked the Chief Minister, members of the Council of Ministers, government departments, fellow advocates, and judicial authorities for placing their trust in him over the years. He added that serving Assam in the constitutional position of Advocate General had been one of the most significant responsibilities of his professional career.

During his tenure, Saikia represented the Assam government in several major constitutional, administrative, and legal matters before different courts. He played a prominent role in handling important litigation involving the state government and was regarded as one of the key legal faces of the administration.

Apart from his responsibilities in the legal field, Saikia is also associated with Indian cricket administration. He currently serves as secretary of the Board of Control for Cricket in India and has remained actively involved in cricket management for several years.

His resignation comes just days before the swearing-in ceremony of the new BJP-led National Democratic Alliance government in Assam, which is scheduled to take place on May 12 in Guwahati.

Political observers believe the resignation follows a long-standing constitutional convention in which Advocate Generals often step down following the conclusion of a government's tenure, allowing the incoming administration to appoint its own chief legal advisor.

Cracks in CPI-M, Jayarajan steps in as dissent grows against Vijayan

THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

For perhaps the first time in nearly three decades, the unquestioned authority of Pinarayi Vijayan within the CPI-M and the Left movement in Kerala is facing open turbulence from within party ranks.

Days after the crushing Assembly poll debacle that reduced the CPI-M-led Left Democratic Front to just 35 seats, senior party leader P. Jayarajan broke his silence amid a growing wave of support for him and mounting anger against the present state leadership.

In a carefully worded Facebook post, Jayarajan appealed to CPI-M cadres to stop social media campaigns glorifying him while simultaneously attacking sections of the party leadership.

The intervention assumes significance at a time when both Vijayan and State CPI-M Secretary M.V. Govindan are facing unprecedented criticism from within the party after the Left's worst ever electoral humiliation in Kerala.

In Kannur, long regarded as the ideological fortress of the CPI-M, posters surfaced demanding Jayarajan's return to leadership.

One prominently displayed slogan read, "Call P. Jayarajan, save the party."

There is also growing resentment among cadres against Kannur district secretary K.K. Ragesh, with many openly demanding a complete overhaul of the state and district leadership.

Jayarajan, however, attempted to rein in the rebellion.

Drawing a contrast with the Congress culture of raising slogans such as "Call Indira, call Sonia, save the Congress", he reminded party workers that Communist organisational discipline was fundamentally different.

He urged cadres to avoid airing differences publicly through social media and instead raise criticism within party forums.

Revanth Reddy's convoy travels in regular traffic in Hyderabad

HYDERABAD

Telangana Chief Minister Revanth Reddy on Thursday travelled through regular traffic in Hyderabad, a day after directing police not to stop vehicles for his convoy movement. After returning from New Delhi, his convoy moved from Rajiv Gandhi International Airport at Shamshabad to his residence in Jubilee Hills without complete traffic stoppages. The Chief Minister had instructed senior police officials on Wednesday to avoid measures causing inconvenience to the public during convoy movement. Following the directive, traffic police allowed vehicles to continue moving in a single lane instead of imposing full roadblocks. Director General of Police C.V. Anand said the Chief Minister emphasised that the public should not be forced to wait on roads for long periods because of VIP movement. Revanth Reddy expressed concern over severe congestion near the airport while travelling to Delhi on Wednesday and directed the DGP to take action against officials responsible for lapses. He also instructed police not to stop vehicles coming from the opposite direction unnecessarily and to regulate traffic in a way that minimises inconvenience to commuters.

COALITION TALKS INTENSIFY AMID TN POLITICAL UNCERTAINTY

Regional allies hold key influence as major parties explore possible post-election alli-ances

CHENNAI

The political landscape in Tamil Nadu has entered a crucial phase as the Communist Party of India (Marxist), Communist Party of India, and Viduthalai Chiruthaigal Katchi emerge as decisive forces in determining the formation of the next government in the state.

Their support is expected to play a pivotal role in deciding whether actor-politician C. Joseph Vijay's Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK) can secure power or whether an alter-native arrangement involving the DMK and AIADMK may take shape.

Amid the ongoing uncertainty following the Assembly election results, M. K. Stalin on Thursday held a series of high-level discussions with CPI-M State Secretary P. Shanmugam, CPI State Secretary M. Veerapandian, and VCK president Thol. Thirumavalavan at his residence on Cenotaph Road in Chennai.

According to sources familiar with the discussions, Stalin explored the possibility of the DMK extending support to the AIADMK in an effort to facilitate government formation and prevent prolonged political instability in the state. The move is being viewed as a significant development in Tamil Nadu politics, considering the traditional rivalry be-tween the two Dravidian parties.

The current political deadlock has arisen because no party or alliance has succeeded in crossing the majority mark of 118 seats in the 234-member Tamil Nadu Assembly. With numbers falling short for all major contenders, smaller parties and allies have suddenly gained immense importance in the post-election scenario.

The CPI-M, CPI, and VCK together hold six MLAs, making their collective decision cru-cial in the ongoing political negotiations. Sources indicated that leaders of both com-munist parties informed Stalin that their respective state committees would deliberate on the issue during meetings scheduled for Friday before arriving at a final decision.

Political observers believe the coming days could witness intense backroom negotia-tions as parties attempt to stitch together a stable coalition government in Tamil Nadu.

Op Sindoor destroyed terror bases: Air Marshal

JAIPUR

Indian armed forces inflicted heavy damage on Pakistan during Operation Sindoor, senior Air Force officer reveals

Awadhesh Kumar Bharti, who served as the Director General of Air Operations during last year's Operation Sindoor, on Thursday stated that Indian armed forces shot down 13 Pakistani aircraft and damaged 11 enemy airfields during the high-intensity military campaign.

Addressing a press conference in Jaipur on the anniversary of Operation Sindoor, the Deputy Chief of Air Staff said the operation was a decisive response against terrorism and military threats originating from Pakistan. According to him, Indian forces also de-stroyed nine terrorist hideouts located inside Pakistan and Pakistan-occupied Kashmir during the operation.

Air Marshal Bharti asserted that despite the scale of the military action, India success-fully ensured that no damage occurred to its civilian or military infrastructure. He high-lighted the precision and coordination demonstrated by the Indian armed forces throughout the operation.

He further revealed that the Army, Navy, and Air Force leadership worked in complete coordination and that the armed forces were granted full operational freedom by the government. Every major strategic decision, he said, was taken jointly by the three ser-vices to ensure maximum effectiveness and minimal collateral damage.

"When our desire for peace is mistaken for weakness, we have no choice but to act. And when we act, there is no room for leniency. It is decisive, lethal and translates into Operation Sindoor," the Air Marshal said while explaining the objective behind the mili-tary campaign.

Responding to questions regarding India's decision to agree to a ceasefire after the operation, Bharti acknowledged the emotions and anger among citizens, particularly the younger generation, due to India's past experiences with Pakistan. However, he clarified that the operation was specifically targeted at terrorists and their support infra-structure rather than civilians.

The remarks come amid renewed discussions over India's military preparedness and its policy against cross-border terrorism. Defence analysts believe Operation Sindoor has become a significant example of India's coordinated military capability and strate-gic response in the region.

EC seizes record inducements during state elections

NEW DELHI

Election Commission teams confiscated massive quantities of cash, liquor, drugs, and freebies across poll-bound states. The Election Commission of India has seized more than Rs 1,400 crore worth of illicit inducements during the recently concluded Assembly elections in five states and Union Territories, marking a sharp rise compared to the 2021 state polls.

According to an official statement released on Thursday, flying squads and surveillance teams appointed by the poll body confiscated inducements worth Rs 1,444.96 crore between February 26 and May 6. The amount represents a 40.14 per cent increase over the Rs 1,029.93 crore seized during the Assembly elections held in the same regions in 2021.

Among all states, West Bengal registered the highest increase in seizures, recording a rise of 68.92 per cent compared to the previous election cycle. Tamil Nadu followed closely with a 48.40 per cent increase in confiscated materials.

In West Bengal alone, enforcement teams seized cash worth Rs 31.14 crore, liquor valued at Rs 151.86 crore, drugs worth Rs 130.28 crore, precious metals valued at Rs 69.36 crore, and other freebies worth Rs 190.77 crore. The total seizure figure in the state reached Rs 573.41 crore, making it one of the largest enforcement drives during the elections.

Tamil Nadu reported the highest overall seizure value among the states, with confiscations amounting to Rs 662.28 crore. The seizures included Rs 105.22 crore in cash, liquor worth Rs 4.94 crore, drugs valued at Rs 78.61 crore, precious metals worth Rs 165.86 crore, and various freebies worth Rs 307.65 crore.

Meanwhile, in Kerala, Election Commission flying squads recovered inducement materials worth Rs 80.67 crore. These included cash amounting to Rs 12.12 crore, liquor worth Rs 2.51 crore, drugs valued at Rs 58.47 crore, precious metals worth Rs 2.25 crore, and other freebies worth Rs 5.33 crore.

The Election Commission has significantly strengthened surveillance mechanisms during elec-tions in recent years to curb the use of money power and illegal inducements aimed at influencing voters. Officials said coordinated efforts involving flying squads, static surveillance teams, police personnel, and intelligence units were carried out to monitor suspicious movement of cash, liquor, narcotics, and valuables during the election period.

NCB secures 20-yr jail for 3 drug traf-fickers held in Haryana

PANIPAT

A Special NDPS Court in Haryana's Panipat district sentenced three drug traffickers to 20 years of rigorous imprisonment each in a 2021 interstate charas trafficking case, a Narcotics Crime Bureau (NCB) official said on Thursday.

The Special Court held Mohd. Wali, Mohd. Rehan Shah and Imran Khan, all three res-idents of Uttar Pradesh's Pilibhit, guilty under the provisions of the Narcotic Drugs and Psychotropic Substances (NDPS) Act for carrying 10 kg charas.

While sentencing the accused trio to 20 years of rigorous imprisonment, the court also slapped a penalty of Rs 2 lakh each," an official of NCB's Delhi Zonal Unit said.

The Special court delivered its judgment in the case on May 5, the NCB said in a statement. The case originated on September 28, 2021, when NCB offi-cials, acting on specific intelligence, intercepted three suspects in Panipat. This led to the seizure of 10 kg of charas sourced from Jammu and Kashmir's Srinagar, an official statement said.

"The success of the case is attributed to the diligent and meticulous investiga-tion carried out by the NCB. Through effective tracing of backward linkages, the kingpin was identified and apprehended in Jammu as the main supplier, thereby ensuring disruption of the entire supply chain," the federal probe agency said.

This sentencing serves as a powerful deterrent against narco-trafficking, the statement said, adding that it also highlights the NCB's sustained focus on strengthening the quality of prosecution and investigative standards.

Such results contribute significantly to the rising national conviction rate and demon-strate the agency's resolve to seek the maximum penalties under the NDPS Act.

The NCB urged citizens to share information regarding narcotics trafficking through the MANAS – National Narcotics Helpline (Toll-Free Number: 1933), assuring that in-formers' identities will be kept confidential.

NDA LEADERS CONDEMN KILLING OF ADHIKARI'S AIDE

NEW DELHI

The NDA leaders on Thursday condemned the killing of the Bharatiya Janata Party (BJP) leader Suvendu Adhikari's personal assistant Chandranath Rath in West Bengal and launched a sharp attack on the Trinamool Congress (TMC) alleging that the state continues to witness political violence and "rule of goons".

Uttarakhand Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami strongly con-demned the incident and said violence has no place in a democracy. I strongly condemn this unfortunate incident. In a democratic process, there is no place for violence. This attempt to create such an atmosphere is a result of frustra-tion and despair. They (TMC) have been shown the exit door by the people," Dhami said while addressing reporters in Dehradun.

Delhi HC protects Aman Gupta personality rights

NEW DELHI

The Delhi High Court on Thursday stated that it would pass an interim order to protect the personality and publicity rights of entrepreneur and Shark Tank In-dia judge Aman Gupta in a case concerning the alleged unauthorised com-mercial use of his identity across multiple digital platforms.

The matter was heard by a single-judge Bench of Justice Tushar Rao Gedela, who indicated that an interim order would be issued after considering submis-sions presented during the hearing. Gupta, widely known as a judge on the popular television show Shark Tank India, is also the co-founder of electronics brand boAt Lifestyle.

Senior Advocate Diya Kapur, appearing on behalf of Gupta and instructed by Advocate Nakul Gandhi, presented before the court a detailed compilation of allegedly infringing material along with copies of previous judicial orders in similar personality rights cases.

During the proceedings, the counsel highlighted several forms of alleged mis-use of Gupta's identity. These reportedly included fake commercial endorse-ments, unauthorised event-booking services using his name, sale of mer-chandise featuring his identity and registered catchphrase "Hum Bhi Bana Lenge," AI chatbots impersonating him, and circulation of vulgar or objection-able content associated with his persona.

The lawsuit, filed before the Commercial Division of the Delhi High Court, al-leges "widespread, systematic and unauthorised commercial exploitation" of Gupta's personality, publicity and trademark rights by unknown entities, digital intermediaries and online platforms.

According to the plaint, Gupta has built considerable goodwill and commercial value around his public image as a successful entrepreneur, investor and me-dia personality.

The suit claims that his name, likeness, voice, mannerisms and distinctive catchphrases possess significant market value and are being illegally exploited without consent.

The legal action also seeks protection for Gupta's registered trademarks, in-cluding the phrases "Hum Bhi Bana Lenge" and "Down, But Not Out!", which have become closely associated with his public appearances and television persona.

Millions of British voters cast ballots

London

Millions of British voters cast their ballots on Thursday in local and regional elections that are expected to deal a huge blow to Prime Minister Keir Starmer's Labour Party and renew questions over his ability to govern. Elections for almost 5,000 council seats in England and to the parliaments in Scotland and Wales could signal the beginning of the end of Britain's traditional two-party system if voters opt for populist and nationalist parties rather than the once-dominant Labour and Conservatives. Polls suggest the populist Reform UK of Brexit campaigner Nigel Farage will expand its control of councils in England, and could form the main opposition in Scotland and Wales to the pro-independence Scottish National Party and Plaid Cymru. Challenging from the left, the Greens look set to threaten Labour's strongholds in London and other major centres.

Iraq's historic marshes come alive

Chibayish Marshes

After years of drought that left large swathes of Iraq's historic marshes cracked and empty, rising water levels are beginning to revive the wetlands, drawing buffalo herders and fishermen back to areas once abandoned. In Chibayish marshes in southern Iraq, canoes once again glide through waterways that had dried up in recent years, while water buffalo wade through restored marshland and patches of green pasture have reappeared. Some time ago, all our livestock died and there was no water at all," said Haidar Qassem, a farmer raising water buffalo in the central marsh. "Many of our people migrated because of the drought," Qassem said, adding that water had returned this year, livestock numbers were recovering and some families had come back.

US-Iran move closer to temporary deal to halt conflict

The proposed arrangement is expected to be only an interim understanding rather than a comprehensive peace settlement

WASHINGTON

The United States and Iran are moving closer toward a limited and temporary agreement aimed at halting the ongoing conflict between the two nations, according to officials and sources familiar with the negotiations.

However, the proposed arrangement is expected to be only an interim understanding rather than a comprehensive peace settlement, leaving several major disputes unresolved.

Sources revealed on Thursday that the draft framework under discussion focuses primarily on stopping military hostilities and ensuring stability in the strategically important Strait of Hormuz. The narrow waterway remains one of the world's most crucial oil shipping routes, and fears of disruptions there had earlier rattled global markets.

The emerging agreement reportedly takes the form of a short-term memorandum instead of a full-scale peace accord. This highlights the continuing mistrust and deep divisions between Washington and Tehran, especially over Iran's nuclear programme. Key disagreements remain regarding the future of Iran's highly enriched uranium stockpiles and the duration for which Tehran would suspend sensitive nuclear activities.

Despite these unresolved issues, both countries appear willing to reduce immediate tensions and avoid a fresh escalation in conflict. Officials involved in the diplomatic process indicated that the current priority is to establish a stable environment that can pave the way for direct negotiations in the future.

The possibility of reduced tensions has already influenced international financial markets. Asian stock markets traded near record highs on Thursday, while global oil prices recorded sharp declines amid hopes that shipping through the Strait of Hormuz could soon normalise without threats of disruption.

A senior Pakistani official involved in mediation efforts stated that the immediate goal is to secure a permanent end to military confrontation. According to the official, broader and more complex disputes could be addressed later once both sides return to formal diplomatic talks.

The temporary arrangement, if finalised, may provide short-term relief for global energy markets and international trade routes, even though a lasting resolution to the decades-long tensions between the United States and Iran remains uncertain.

US troop cut worries German's Vilseck town residents

They fear economic collapse amid possible withdrawal of thousands of American military personnel from the town

VILSECK

The small Bavarian town of Vilseck is facing growing uncertainty after reports suggested that at least 5,000 American troops could soon be withdrawn from Germany under plans linked to President Donald Trump.

The move is expected to significantly impact the local economy, which has depended heavily on the U.S. military presence since the end of World War Two.

Although officials have not yet formally confirmed which units will be relocated, attention has centred on the 2nd Stryker Cavalry Regiment stationed at Rose Barracks in Vilseck. The regiment is currently the only permanent brigade combat team based in Germany and has long played a major role in supporting the local community through employment and business activity.

Vilseck's newly elected mayor, Thorsten Graedler, expressed serious concern over the potential consequences of the troop withdrawal. According to him, the town's economy is deeply tied to the military base, which provides thousands of jobs and supports businesses including restaurants, pubs, supermarkets, garages, and local service providers.

Graedler explained that over the years, the consistent presence of American soldiers and their families created a strong economic dependence that is now becoming a major vulnerability. He warned that losing the military population could result in significant job losses across the rural region, where alternative sources of employment are limited.

The proposed troop reduction comes as Washington continues to pressure European nations to increase their own defence spending. American leaders have repeatedly argued that European allies have relied too heavily on U.S. military support while underinvesting in their domestic defence capabilities.

Interestingly, discussions about withdrawing the 2nd Cavalry Regiment had already surfaced during Trump's first presidential term. However, those plans were later reversed under former President Joe Biden, allowing the regiment to remain stationed in Germany.

Despite the uncertainty, Mayor Graedler said he still hopes the troop withdrawal plans may not be fully implemented, noting that no official confirmation has yet been issued regarding the removal of the Stryker unit. Meanwhile, the German government stated that the announcement did not come as a major surprise, especially as Berlin has recently increased defence spending to rebuild and modernise its military following years of underinvestment.

Health authorities worldwide race tracing passengers following deadly hantavirus outbreak aboard stranded Antarctic cruise vessel

Global hunt begins after deadly cruise ship virus outbreak

AMSTERDAM

Countries around the world have launched urgent efforts to trace passengers who left the cruise ship MV Hondius after a deadly hantavirus outbreak onboard claimed three lives and raised fears of further international spread of the disease.

The outbreak occurred aboard the expedition cruise vessel MV Hondius, which later became stranded off the coast of Cape Verde. According to the World Health Organization, three people a Dutch couple and a German national died following the outbreak. Eight additional passengers, including a Swiss citizen, are suspected to have contracted the virus.

Health officials are now attempting to locate several passengers whose whereabouts remain unknown after they disembarked from the vessel in different countries. Authorities fear that infected travellers may unknowingly spread the disease further if not identified and isolated quickly.

Among the passengers who left the ship was the wife of a Dutch man who died onboard on April 11. Reports stated that the woman later became seriously ill herself and died before she could return to the Netherlands.

Dutch airline KLM Royal Dutch Airlines confirmed on Wednesday that the woman had been removed from a flight in Johannesburg on April 25 after her medical condition rapidly worsened during travel. According to Dutch broadcaster RTL, a KLM flight attendant who reportedly came into contact with the passenger has now been admitted to a hospital in Amsterdam after showing possible symptoms associated with hantavirus infection.

The Dutch health ministry confirmed that a Dutch woman has been hospitalised and will undergo testing to determine whether she contracted the virus. However, officials did not publicly identify her profession or disclose details regarding possible contacts, citing privacy considerations. A spokesperson for KLM stated that the airline could not comment on individual medical cases due to confidentiality policies.

Hantavirus is a rare but potentially deadly disease generally spread through contact with infected rodents or their droppings. Symptoms can initially resemble flu-like illness but may rapidly progress to severe respiratory complications.

Israeli attack kills son of Hamas leader

CAIRO

An Israeli air strike has killed the son of Hamas' chief negotiator in U.S.-mediated talks over Gaza's future, a senior Hamas official said on Thursday, as leaders of the militant group held talks in Cairo aimed at safeguarding their truce with Israel.

Azzam Al-Hayya, son of Khalil Al-Hayya, succumbed to his injuries on Thursday after being struck in an Israeli attack on Wednesday night, said senior Hamas official Basim Naim. He is the fourth son of Hamas' exiled Gaza chief to have been killed in Israeli attacks.

Hayya, who has seven children, has survived multiple Israeli attempts to kill him. An Israeli strike in Doha last year targeting Hamas leadership killed his son, though Hayya survived.

Two other sons were killed in past Israeli attempts on his life, in Gaza strikes in 2008 and 2014.

Rubio to meet Pope Leo as Trump keeps up attacks on pontiff

VATICAN CITY

U.S. Secretary of State Marco Rubio came to the Vatican on Thursday for a potentially fraught encounter with Pope Leo as President Donald Trump has continued a series of disparaging attacks on the Catholic leader over the Iran war.

Rubio's convoy drove through the central Roman boulevard leading to the Vatican under tight security, arriving at 11:10 am (0910 GMT) for the first visit between the pope and a Trump cabinet official in nearly a year.

The closed-door meeting between Leo and Rubio, who also serves as Trump's national security adviser, is expected to last about a half-hour. Rubio will meet afterwards with the Vatican's top diplomat, Italian Cardinal Pietro Parolin.

Leo, the first U.S. pope, drew Trump's ire after becoming a firm critic of the U.S.-Israeli war on Iran and the Trump administration's hardline anti-immigration policies.

The president has kept up an unprecedented series of public attacks on the pope in recent weeks, drawing a backlash from Christian leaders across the political spectrum.

On Monday, Trump falsely suggested the pope believed it was okay for Iran to obtain nuclear weapons and said Leo was "endangering a lot of Catholics" by opposing the war.

Leo told journalists after the latest attack that he was spreading the Christian message of peace. The pope also firmly rejected the idea that he supported nuclear weapons, which the Catholic Church teaches are immoral.

The mission of the Church is to preach the Gospel, to preach peace," said the pope. "The Church has spoken out for years against all nuclear arms, on that there is no doubt."

As Rubio arrived at the Vatican, Polish Prime Minister Donald Tusk was leaving from a meeting with Leo. He told journalists he and the pope discussed how to strengthen international cooperation and generate hope in the world.

"It is still possible that the world does not have to descend into chaos, if good people, people of goodwill, find one another and act in unity," Tusk said, speaking in Polish.

Hezbollah commander killed by Israel in Beirut suburbs

BEIRUT

Israel said on Thursday it had killed a commander of Hezbollah's elite Radwan force in an airstrike on Beirut a day earlier, the first Israeli attack on the Lebanese capital since a ceasefire agreed last month.

The Israeli military said the commander was killed when Israel struck the southern suburbs of Beirut. There was no immediate confirmation from Hezbollah. Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu and Defence Minister Israel Katz announced the attack in a joint statement on Wednesday.

The strike has raised pressure on the ceasefire that had halted Israeli attacks on Beirut, even as Israeli forces have remained deployed in areas south of the Litani River and continued to carry out strikes in southern Lebanon.

Iran ally Hezbollah has responded to those strikes by firing and launching armed drones towards Israeli soldiers.

The Lebanon ceasefire has underpinned a broader truce in the wider Iran war, with a halt to Israeli strikes in Lebanon being a key Iranian demand in Tehran's negotiations with Washington.

Israel earlier on Wednesday called for residents to evacuate several villages north of the Litani River, which could represent an expansion of Israel's zone of action. Talks between Israel and Lebanon have continued, but have largely been at the ambassador level.

Lebanese Prime Minister Nawaf Salam said on Wednesday that it was premature to talk of any high-level meeting between Lebanon and Israel.

Salam, in comments reported by Lebanon's National News Agency on Wednesday, said shoring up a ceasefire would be the basis for any new negotiations between Lebanese and Israeli government envoys in Washington.

TIE BEYOND DIPLOMATIC FORMALITY

Paraguay Prez lauds friendship with Taiwan, China

TAIPEI

Paraguay and Taiwan share a friendship based on freedom and democracy that extends beyond diplomatic formalities, Paraguayan President Santiago Pena said on Thursday, as China told him to sever ties with Taipei.

His visit comes as China steps up efforts, opens new tab to draw the South American nation away from its long-standing support for Taipei.

The trip is Pena's second visit as president to Taiwan. Paraguay is one of 12 countries that still maintain formal diplomatic relations with the democratically-governed island that is claimed by Beijing.

Speaking in English to university students in Taipei after receiving an honorary doctorate, Pena said Paraguay and Taiwan have an alliance that is based on freedom.

"Paraguay and Taiwan share a friendship built on a solid foundation, democracy, freedom, confidence in institutions, the dignity of hard work," he said.

"Our bilateral relationship extends far beyond diplomatic formality. It is manifested in concrete actions, tangible achievements, and real opportunities for both of our nations."

Addressing Pena at the same event, Taiwanese Vice President Hsiao Bi-khim mentioned how she had first met and been impressed by him in Washington before he was elected president.

"And I am still extremely impressed by President Pena's passion for serving the people of Paraguay," she added. "President Pena, passion, people, Paraguay, five P's. And plus, a principled partnership with Taiwan makes it 'perfecto.'" In Beijing earlier on Thursday, Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesperson Lin Jian said Paraguay should "stand on the right side of history" and "sever so-called diplomatic relations with the Taiwan authorities."

"The 'One China' principle is a fundamental norm of international relations and the universal consensus of the international community," Lin said, referring to Beijing's stance that both sides of the Taiwan Strait are part of a single country.

"Teen star Vaibhav ready for test cricket": Cheteshwar Pujara

MUMBAI

Indian batting legend Cheteshwar Pujara believes that fifteen year old sensation Vaibhav Sooryavanshi is ready for the ultimate challenge. Pujara emphasized that while the young star is currently dominating the shorter format, the longest version of the game remains the true test of a player's character.

Sooryavanshi has become the talk of the town during the ongoing 2026 IPL season. Playing for the Rajasthan Royals, the left-handed prodigy has smashed 404 runs in just ten innings. This explosive performance has led many fans to demand his immediate inclusion in India's national T20 squad. However, Pujara argues that young talents should not limit themselves to white-ball cricket.

"If Vaibhav has the opportunity and the skill, he should definitely play Tests," Pujara stated. He explained that Test matches build the temperament and respect for the game that every cricketer needs. While acknowledging that specialists like Shreyas Iyer are vital for specific formats, he insists that the red-ball game should be the goal for every aspiring athlete.

Cheteshwar Pujara backed teenage prodigy Vaibhav Sooryavanshi for Test cricket, praising his temperament following a stellar 2026 IPL season

Now working as a cricket expert, Pujara is using his vast experience to break down the game for viewers. He enjoys sharing stories from the pitch to help fans and young players understand the technical side of batting and bowling strategies. For Pujara, the message is clear, talent like Sooryavanshi's is rare, and it deserves to be nurtured on the grandest stage of all.

Dropped catches cost Punjab victory against Hyderabad

HYDERABAD

Punjab Kings captain Shreyas Iyer was left reflecting on missed opportunities after his team suffered a 33-run defeat to Sunrisers Hyderabad. Despite a historic performance from a young star, Iyer admitted that poor fielding proved to be the deciding factor in the high-scoring match.

Hyderabad set a massive total of 235 runs, but the story could have been different. Punjab fielders dropped key batters Ishan Kishan and Heinrich Klaasen early in their innings.

Both players took full advantage of these lifelines, smashing half-centuries that pushed the game out of reach. "We weren't able to take catches," a frustrated Iyer noted after the game. He pointed out that while the team started the season strong, they cannot afford such sloppy mistakes if they want to stay competitive.

The match wasn't without highlights for Punjab. Cooper Connolly played a breathtaking innings, scoring an unbeaten 107 runs. At just 19, he became the youngest overseas player to hit an IPL century. Iyer praised the teenager's fearless mindset under pressure and also commended Yuzvendra Chahal for his steady bowling on a difficult pitch.

Punjab Kings captain Shreyas Iyer blamed poor fielding and dropped catches for their 33-run loss to Hyderabad, despite Cooper Connolly's historic century.

However, a top-order collapse left Connolly with too much to do alone. Chasing a giant target, Punjab finished on 202 runs. While the batting showed heart, the skipper insisted that the team must improve their consistency and fielding standards immediately. For Hyderabad, the win was a clinical display of how to punish an opponent's mistakes and control the game.

India to host first World Yogasana Championship

AHMEDABAD

India is preparing to make history by hosting the first-ever World Yogasana Championship in Ahmedabad next month. From June 4 to 8, the TransStadia arena will welcome elite athletes from over forty countries for a global competition that blends ancient tradition with modern athletic spirit.

The event, organized by Yogasana Bharat, aims to elevate yoga from a spiritual practice to a globally recognized sport. These athletes will now undergo intensive training at a coaching camp in Ahmedabad to prepare for the world stage. Competitors will be judged on their precision, balance, and flexibility across various categories, including artistic and rhythmic yogasana.

Udit Sheth, President of Yogasana Bharat, stated that this championship is a "defining moment" for the sport. He noted that the vision, supported by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, is to introduce yoga to the world's youth and eventually see it featured in the Olympic Games. By creating a competitive environment, India hopes to show that yogasana is a gateway to a healthy and disciplined lifestyle.

PSG beat Bayern to reach Champions League final

MUNICH

Paris Saint-Germain has secured a spot in their second consecutive UEFA Champions League final after a tense battle against Bayern Munich. Despite a 1-1 draw in the second leg, the French giants advanced with a thrilling 6-5 total score across both matches.

PSG started with lightning speed, scoring just three minutes into the game. Ousmane Dembele found the back of the net after a perfect pass from teammate Khvicha Kvaratskhelia. This early goal put heavy pressure on Bayern, who spent the rest of the match desperately searching for a way back. The German side felt cheated when the referee denied their loud appeals for a penalty after a close-call handball in the box.

Throughout the match, both goalkeepers performed heroics. Manuel Neuer made several brilliant saves to keep Bayern in the hunt, while PSG's Matvey Safonov blocked a dangerous shot from Jamal Musiala. Bayern's star striker Harry Kane finally scored late in the second half with a powerful strike, marking his 14th goal of the tournament. However, his effort came too late to change the final outcome.

Under the guidance of coach Luis Enrique, PSG showed a new level of defensive toughness to hold off Bayern's late attacks. The defending champions will now travel to Budapest for a massive final showdown against Arsenal. After winning the trophy last season, the Parisians are now just one win away from keeping their crown as the kings of Europe.

STAR BOWLERS RETURN TO NZ SQUAD

WELLINGTON

New Zealand has announced an ambitious nineteen-man squad for their upcoming Test tours, featuring the highly anticipated return of fast bowlers Kyle Jamieson and William O'Rourke. The team is preparing for a historic one-off match against Ireland in Belfast followed by a major three-game series in England.

Jamieson is back in the Test lineup for the first time in over two years. The towering bowler has spent a long time recovering from a serious back injury and was recently eased back into action through domestic matches. O'Rourke also returns from his own injury layoff, strengthening a pace attack that includes stars like Matt Henry and Ben Sears.

The squad features some fresh faces as well. All-rounder Dean Foxcroft earned his first call-up after a string of impressive performances in local cricket. Meanwhile, veteran batter Henry Nicholls has been recalled following a strong domestic season. Former captain Kane Williamson also joins the group, providing vital experience for the challenging English conditions.

The tour begins on May 27 in Belfast, marking the first time New Zealand will play a Test match on Irish soil. While the Ireland game is a standalone fixture, the following matches in England will be part of the World Test Championship. The team will be without Michael Bracewell, who is taking a break from the long format, and Jacob Duffy, who is staying home for the birth of his child. This tour represents a vital chance for the Kiwis to climb the global rankings.

Junior hockey teams ready for Australia clash

BHOPAL

Hockey India has officially announced the twenty-four-member squads for the upcoming Under-18 Men's and Women's series against Australia. This high-stakes tournament will be held at the SAI Central Centre in Bhopal from May 15 to 20, serving as a vital warm-up for the Asia Cup in Japan later this month.

The final players were chosen after a week of intense training and testing. Forward Ketan Kushwaha has been appointed as the captain for the Men's team, while Sweety Kujur will lead the Women's side. Both teams have been trimmed down from a larger group of forty-two players to ensure only the most fit and tactically sharp athletes take the field.

Legendary former players are guiding these young stars. Sardar Singh, who mentors the Men's team, believes playing against a fast-paced Australian side is the perfect way to test the boys' discipline. Meanwhile, former captain Rani is coaching the Women's team. She described the four-match series as a "dress rehearsal" that will show exactly where the players stand before they head to the international stage.

The series is expected to draw large crowds in Bhopal as fans gather to see the future of Indian hockey. For these teenagers, it is more than just a game, it is a golden opportunity to prove they can handle the pressure of international competition. With expert coaching and tough opponents, the stage is set for an exciting week of world-class junior hockey.

Indian women archers stun S.Korea in Shanghai

SHANGHAI

The Indian women's recurve team created history at the Archery World Cup Stage 2 by defeating the legendary South Korean team to reach the final. The stunning 5-1 semifinal victory guarantees India at least a silver medal and marks a rare upset against the ten-time Olympic champions.

The trio of Deepika Kumari, Ankita Bhakat, and young Kumkum Mohod showed incredible nerves of steel. After taking an early lead, they finished the match with a perfect streak of three bullseyes to knock out the top-seeded Koreans. India will now face China in the gold medal match this Sunday. "It was a dominant performance," noted spectators as the Indian women outshined the reigning world champions in a high-pressure deciding set.

While the women celebrated, it was a difficult day for the rest of the Indian contingent. The men's recurve team suffered a surprising early exit after losing to Bangladesh. Meanwhile, India's usually dominant compound archers struggled across the board. The men's compound team narrowly missed out on a bronze medal after a tense shoot-off against China, and the women's compound team fell in the quarterfinals to Turkey.

Despite the setbacks in other events, the spotlight remains firmly on the recurve women. Their ability to take down the world's most successful archery nation has sent a wave of excitement through the sport. As they prepare for the final against the home favorites, China, the Indian team is proving they are serious contenders for the upcoming international season.

Mumbai to launch first Women's T20 League

MUMBAI

The Mumbai Cricket Association (MCA) has announced a landmark moment for local cricket with the launch of the inaugural T20 Mumbai Women's League. The tournament will run alongside the fourth season of the men's league from June 1 to 13 at the historic Wankhede Stadium, creating a massive double-header for fans.

This new competition aims to provide a high-profile stage for female athletes. Big names like Sayali Satghare and Saima Thakor will feature alongside teenage sensation Ira Jadhav, who recently became the most expensive player at the auction. MCA President Ajinkya Naik stated that hosting both events together reflects the city's commitment to building a more inclusive and diverse cricket ecosystem.

The men's side remains equally star-studded, featuring global icons such as Suryakumar Yadav, Yashasvi Jaiswal, and Ajinkya Rahane. For many young stars, playing at the Wankhede is a dream come true.

League Chairman Rajdip Gupta noted that the tournament will be broadcast nationwide on Star Sports and streamed on JioHotstar, giving local talent invaluable exposure to a massive audience.

England star Lucy Staniforth set to retire

BIRMINGHAM

Aston Villa midfielder Lucy Staniforth has announced she will retire from professional football at the end of this season. The 33-year-old is ending a brilliant 16-year career that saw her rise from a teenage talent at Sunderland to an international star.

Since joining Villa in 2023, the Yorkborn playmaker helped the club reach its highest league finish. Despite facing tough injury setbacks, including major knee surgeries, her leadership remained unmatched. Reflecting on her journey, the Lioness, who earned 17 caps for England, shared that she feels "super-content" to start a new chapter.

Fans now have one final chance to cheer for the midfield maestro. Staniforth leaves a lasting legacy of resilience and skill, moving into the "big, wide world" after an unforgettable run on the pitch.

Batters on fire as SRH top table

HYDERABAD

Sunrisers Hyderabad captain Pat Cummins has hailed his team's "fearless" batting unit after a dominant 33-run victory over Punjab Kings propelled them to the top of the IPL 2026 standings. Cummins credited the group's aggressive mindset for setting a massive total that proved too much for the opposition.

Batting first, Hyderabad posted a towering 235 runs, thanks to blistering half-centuries from Heinrich Klaasen and Ishan Kishan. While both players benefited from dropped catches, they made the most of their luck to dismantle the Punjab bowling attack. Cummins jokingly admitted he was tempted to stay on the sidelines after seeing the team win so consistently under stand-in captain Ishan Kishan earlier this season. "The batters have been on fire, so you don't have to do too much," Cummins noted with a smile. Despite the loss, the match featured a historic moment for Punjab as young Australian Cooper Connolly smashed an unbeaten 107. At just 19, he became the youngest overseas player to score an IPL century.

'India-Vietnam tie boosts trade growth outlook'

The partnership upgrade expected to boost trade, critical minerals access, exports, and supply-chain resilience significantly, says PHDCCI

NEW DELHI

PHD Chamber of Commerce and Industry (PHDCCI) has said that the elevation of India–Vietnam relations to an Enhanced Comprehensive Strategic Partnership will significantly strengthen trade, investment flows, and supply-chain resilience between the two countries.

The upgrade follows the visit of Vietnam President To Lam to India, during which both sides agreed on a broad framework to deepen cooperation across critical sectors. Industry leaders said the partnership is expected to improve India's access to critical inputs, while also expanding export opportunities and supporting long-term economic growth.

According to industry representatives, the agreement aligns closely with India's flagship initiatives such as Make in India and Digital India, while also supporting semiconductor development, electronics manufacturing, and pharmaceutical exports. Cooperation in rare earths and critical minerals is expected to play a key role in strengthening supply chains for electric vehicles, renewable energy systems, defence manufacturing, and advanced electronics.

The partnership also includes increased collaboration in artificial intelligence, information technology, and semiconductor ecosystems, which is expected to enhance India's position in global digital value chains. Sectors such as agriculture, tourism, aviation, urban infrastructure, and smart city development are also likely to benefit from expanded cooperation.

The two countries have set a bilateral trade target of $25 billion by 2030 and signed multiple memoranda of understanding covering areas such as rare earths, pharmaceuticals, electronics, digital payments, education, and urban development.

Expected outcomes

Vedanta shares fall after Citi cuts rating, target price

MUMBAI

Vedanta Limited saw its shares fall over 3 percent after brokerage firm Citi Research downgraded the stock from 'buy' to 'sell' and cut its target price to Rs 265, citing concerns over zinc prices and dividend policy changes.

The brokerage said the company's earnings are heavily dependent on its zinc business, which contributes more than 90 percent of its attributable EBITDA. It warned that any further weakness in zinc prices could significantly impact profitability and overall financial performance.

Citi also flagged uncertainty around Vedanta's revised capital allocation and dividend framework. The company is no longer bound by its earlier dividend distribution policy, raising concerns among analysts about future cash payouts and shareholder returns. Vedanta has historically been popular with income-focused investors due to its strong dividend track record.

According to Citi, the risk-reward profile at current London Metal Exchange price levels appears unfavourable, suggesting limited upside for the stock from present valuations.

Following the downgrade, Vedanta shares were trading at Rs 305.80, down Rs 10.60 during intraday trade. Despite recent volatility, the stock has shown mixed performance trends, gaining in the short term but declining sharply over the past month and six months.

Citi downgrades Vedanta to sell, citing weak zinc outlook, dividend policy changes, and limited upside, cutting target price to ₹265

The stock has remained under pressure due to broader weakness in metals markets and concerns over global demand conditions. Analysts say investor sentiment is also being influenced by uncertainty in commodity cycles and corporate restructuring decisions within the group.

Overall, Citi's revised outlook highlights caution on both commodity pricing risks and corporate policy shifts, which together could weigh on Vedanta's near-term earnings visibility.

NEW DELHI

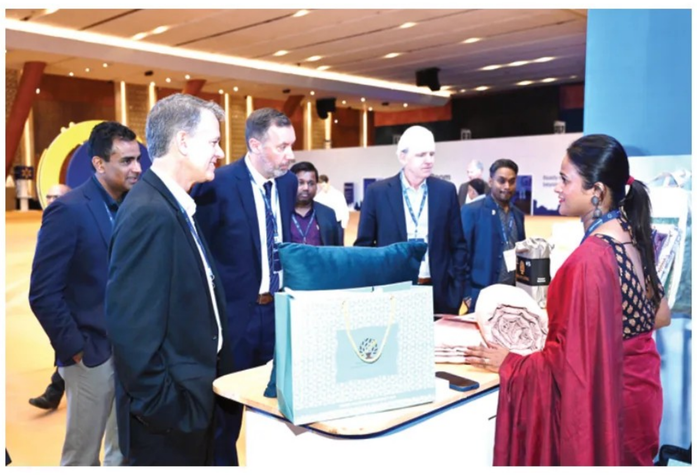
Skyroot Aerospace has become India's first space-tech unicorn after raising $60 million in a new funding round led by existing investors Sherpalo Ventures and Singapore sovereign wealth fund GIC.

The fresh capital has pushed the Hyderabad-based startup's valuation to $1.1 billion, more than doubling from its 2023 valuation of about $519 million.

The round also saw participation from investors including BlackRock, Arkam Ventures, Playbook Partners, Greenko Group founders, Shanghvi Family Office, and others. Some investors were existing backers, while Playbook Partners and Shanghvi Family Office joined as new participants.

Company CEO Pawan Kumar Chandana said the funds will support scaling up launch operations, expanding manufacturing capacity, and advancing the development of Vikram-2, a next-generation rocket designed to carry heavier payloads into orbit using an advanced cryogenic upper stage. The company is also preparing for the upcoming launch of Vikram-1, India's first privately developed orbital rocket. Skyroot Aerospace previously demonstrated its capabilities with the 2022 Vikram-S suborbital mission, which validated key launch technologies. Vikram-1 is expected to mark its entry into commercial orbital launch services.

Industry experts said the milestone highlights growing global investor confidence in India's private space sector and strengthens the country's ambition to expand its share in the global space economy over the next decade. The company's total funding now exceeds $160 million, or roughly Rs 1,500 crore.



Walmart sees India major global opportunity

NEW DELHI

Walmart President and CEO has said that India represents one of the most dynamic opportunities in global commerce today, highlighting the country's growing role in international supply chains and manufacturing.

Speaking at the second edition of the 'Walmart Growth Summit–India 2026', Furner said the company has already sourced more than $40 billion worth of goods from India. He added that Walmart is focused on strengthening supplier capabilities, improving compliance and quality standards, and helping Indian manufacturers scale up for global exports.

He said these efforts are aimed at expanding economic opportunities and connecting Indian businesses with customers worldwide. The summit brought together more than 5,000 participants, including exporters, MSMEs, digital-first brands, and supply chain partners.

Walmart's supplier development initiative, Vriddhi Supplier Development Programme, has trained over 115,000 micro, small, and medium enterprises since its launch in 2019. The programme provides digital skills, business training, and access to new markets, with a target of supporting 170,000 MSMEs by 2028.

Flipkart Group CEO Kalyan Krishnamurthy said technology and digital commerce are helping millions of Indian small businesses, artisans, and entrepreneurs access new opportunities. He highlighted initiatives such as Flipkart Samarth and Walmart Vriddhi as key enablers of inclusive growth.

Company leaders said Indian businesses are increasingly becoming part of global supply chains, with rising interest in exporting through Walmart Marketplace to markets such as the United States. The focus remains on building stronger manufacturing capabilities and expanding India's role in global commerce networks.

RBI signals flexibility in future inflation target framework

NEW DELHI

Reserve Bank of India Deputy Governor Poonam Gupta indicated that India could consider modifying its inflation target and tolerance band in the future if the country continues to witness a favourable balance between economic growth and inflation. However, she emphasised that the existing framework remains appropriate given ongoing global economic uncertainty and volatility.

Gupta said India's inflation-targeting system has performed well over the past decade, delivering robust growth along with lower and more stable inflation. She noted that if this trend strengthens further, policymakers may eventually review the current inflation target and its flexibility band.

The government, in consultation with the Reserve Bank of India, recently retained the inflation target framework for another five years through March 2031. Under this system, the RBI is mandated to maintain headline consumer price inflation at 4 percent with a tolerance band of plus or minus 2 percent.

Gupta explained that the 4 percent target was initially recommended by the RBI Expert Committee in 2014 after studies suggested that this level best balanced economic growth and price stability. She also pointed out that advanced economies such as the United States and Japan generally maintain lower inflation targets around 2 percent, while emerging market economies often operate within a 2.5 to 4 percent range.

LPG production stable despite refinery maintenance turnaround

NEW DELHI

India's largest domestic-market refinery, Reliance Industries' 33-million-tonne-per-annum Jamnagar plant, will undergo a scheduled four-week maintenance shutdown later this month.

The Petroleum Ministry, however, said the temporary closure will not disrupt supplies of LPG, petrol, diesel, or aviation turbine fuel because refinery maintenance schedules are being coordinated nationwide to avoid simultaneous outages.

Officials said the shutdown will begin only after Nayara Energy's Vadinar refinery resumes operations following its own maintenance turnaround.

The government believes domestic LPG production will remain stable because not all processing units at Reliance's refinery will be offline during the maintenance period.

India's energy sector is already facing pressure from the ongoing West Asia conflict and disruptions around the Strait of Hormuz, a critical route for crude oil, LNG, and LPG imports. India imports nearly 60% of its LPG needs, and about 90 percent of those imports usually pass through the Strait, making household cooking fuel particularly vulnerable to supply disruptions.

To manage shortages, authorities have prioritised LPG supplies for households while restricting industrial and commercial consumption. Refineries are also maximising domestic LPG production and sourcing additional cargoes from countries including the United States, Australia, and Russia. Government officials said India remains self-sufficient in petrol and diesel production and continues to maintain adequate fuel availability despite geopolitical tensions.

Officials also noted that domestic refiners have increased LPG output by roughly forty percent since the conflict began, helping reduce dependence on imports. Export duties on diesel and aviation turbine fuel have additionally discouraged overseas sales, ensuring more supplies remain available for Indian consumers and sectors during the crisis
